FENTRESS BRACEWELL BARBOURS CUT CONTAINER TERMINAL

The most modern intermodal facility on the U.S. Gulf, Barbours Cut Container Terminal was designed with one priority in mind: vessel productivity. It accomplishes this by providing a fast turnaround for container and RO/RO vessels and project cargo. The terminal is located at the mouth of Galveston Bay and is 3.5 hours' sailing time from the Gulf of Mexico.

The facility also includes a roll-on/roll-off platform, a LASH dock, 230 acres of paved marshaling area and 255,000 square foot of warehouse space and acres of open marshaling and storage area. A computerized inventory control system tracks the status and location of individual containers. The terminal also features electronic data interchange capabilities. A comprehensive refrigerated food warehouse is located near the terminal. Combined with competitive tariff rates, this facility's efficiency makes it an ideal port of call for shippers with cargo originating from or destined for the US Midwest and West Coast.

TURNING BASIN TERMINAL

The Turning Basin Terminal is a multipurpose complex located eight miles from downtown Houston and serves as the navigational head of the Houston Ship Channel, just 50 miles from the Gulf of Mexico. The banks along this section of the channel are lined for 2.5 miles downstream with an alternating arrangement of open wharves and docks backed by transit sheds and warehouses. This makes the Turning Basin ideal for direct discharge and direct loading operations. Each year, some 2,800 ship and barge calls are recorded at the Turning Basin Terminal's 37 docks. These docks are equipped to handle just about any type of breakbulk, containerized, project or heavy-lift cargoes. This terminal also is equipped for handling large, odd-shaped cargoes, long-term project cargo and vehicles.

Every wharf at the Turning Basin, except Wharves 1 through 4, is served by rail. Three railroads serve Houston and provide service to all points in the United States. The railroads - Burlington Northern-Santa Fe and Union Pacific - are members of the Port Terminal Railroad Association, which provides switching service to all Turning Basin docks.

More than 100 truck lines serve the Turning Basin, which is located just five miles from two major interstate highways that run north-south and east-west.

Direct discharge and loading are possible at this terminal, using either rail cars or trucks. Berths are assigned on a first-come, first-served basis, rather than preferential berthing, and the average turnaround time for a ship at the terminal is two to three days.

Nearby, the 200-acre Industrial Park West provides facilities for container marshaling, consolidation and storage of steel and servicing and distribution of automobiles. The 115-acre Industrial Park East is also close by and provides paved and unpaved storage area, as well as storage shed space.

HOUSTON PUBLIC ELEVATOR NO. 2

The Houston Public Elevator was acquired by the Port Authority in December 1992 and commenced operations in June 1993. The elevator is located within the Woodhouse Terminal in Galena Park, Texas. Construction of this facility was completed in 1979, making it one of the newest and more modern export elevators in the country. Continuing mechanical and technological upgrading will keep this facility at the forefront of the industry's export elevators.

The elevator is ideal for shippers who export large volumes of grain and must move their shipments fast. It has a rated storage capacity of 6.2 million bushels and a maximum rated loading capability of 120,000 bushels per hour. Trucks are received on two pits at a maximum rate of 30 trucks per hour while rail receipts from three pits reach 20 cars per hour. The facility is totally automated, allowing operators to have control of all elevator equipment at their fingertips.

With the high-speed handling capabilities and switch rate absorptions by participating rail carriers, the overall throughput costs are among the lowest in the nation. FOREIGN TRADE ZONE

What is a Foreign Trade Zone?

A foreign trade zone is a designated area in which foreign and domestic merchandise is generally considered by the U.S. government as being outside U.S. Customs territory. Merchandise may be brought into an FTZ without a formal customs entry, import quotas and most other import restrictions. Duties and excise taxes are not assessed until the merchandise enters U.S. commerce.

The Port of Houston Authority is manager of a foreign trade zone which includes many privately owned and port-owned sites located throughout Houston and Harris County, Texas. The Houston Zone offers users special benefits. For example, customs duties on imported goods entering the FTZ can be delayed until the cargo is removed from the zone. No duty is paid if the merchandise is exported directly from the zone.

Benefits of Using a Foreign Trade Zone

Storage: Foreign and domestic merchandise may be stored within the zone for an unlimited period of time, thereby avoiding all duties and excise taxes.

Product Handling: Merchandise may be opened, examined, assembled, mixed, cleaned, labeled or repackaged within a zone.

Manufacturing: Products may be manufactured within a zone and may even include the combining of foreign and domestic merchandise.

Exhibiting: Merchandise may be displayed, sampled or examined within the zone.

Disposal: Waste materials and damaged or valueless merchandise may be destroyed within the zone to avoid duties.

Advantages Offered at the Houston Foreign Trade Zone

Houston offers a strategic link to interior U.S. markets. Its location makes Houston an ideal distribution point for shippers sending goods to the U.S. West and Midwest. Shipping overland to these areas is easy because of direct access to a vast network of interstate highways and railroads, plus the fact that Houston is served by numerous airlines, railroads and motor freight companies.

Houston's FTZ includes many facilities located in the Houston area which offer a variety of services, allowing more flexibility and diversity than many other foreign trade zones located throughout the country.

Services Available at Houston's Public FTZ Sites

- General purpose warehousing
- Liquid bulk storage and blending
- Steel and pipe storage
- Pipe end finishing and heat treating
- Bagging and packaging operations

The Houston Foreign Trade Zone also offers more than 1700 acres of zone-authorized land and building space for lease and development to companies desiring to conduct their own operations within the Houston FTZ.
